This book, representative of only one year at Franklin High School, is justly dedicated to the forty years of service afforded Franklin by Miss Dana Small, a Franklin graduate of 1919.

Coming to Franklin in 1926 after teaching one year at Parkdale and two years at Chehalis, Miss Small embarked on a teaching career that would span four decades. This career has been marked with a singular honor that overshadows the accomplishments of an average classroom teacher. Miss Small was the first educator to instruct teachers about how to teach the new UICSM (University of Illinois Committee on School Mathematics) mathematics program. She has spent several summers at the University of Illinois during the late 50's and early 60's. Further proof of Miss Small's mathematic ability is that she is chairman of Franklin's department of mathematics.

This year, 1966, is the year of Miss Dana Small's retirement, a time of rejoicing in her accomplishment, yet sorrow for her loss to forthcoming students.

WITH DEDICATION...

TODAY...

Each year hundreds of students enter Franklin High School, where the doors of knowledge open wide. Every student is an individual with a past and a future different from all others.

In students are advanced enough for placement in the program of Educational Enrichment classes. Some, newly arrived from other nations, lend an international flavor to the school; although proficient in their native tongues, they must receive varying degrees of help in mastering the unfamiliar English language.

Franklin's teachers adapt the curriculum to each student, giving special attention where needed, in order to best provide him with the education on which he will found the rest of his life. These teachers are the ones who have opened the doors of knowledge, but it is up to each student to enter.

WE PREPARE...

FOR THE

Students at Franklin have a source of education larger than the material taught in the classrooms. In addition to the classroom curriculum, students gain the experience of numerous extracurricular organizations and activities. The athletic competition is conducive to emotional as well as physical well-being; the basic principles of democracy are absorbed by those who are involved in the student government. School-chartered service and interest clubs and school-sponsored dances and assemblies create a background of fellowship. All students have the opportunity to work with clubs, staffs, and groups; they may be involved in the dramatic or musical productions, they may work in the student store, or the library or the cafeteria - the list is almost endless. For the student who is interested, activities are available to utilize and develop special talent.

Getting an education is a full-time job: to those who care enough to work at it go the greatest opportunities for a rewarding high school life and a happy and successful future.

AND ALL THAT...

Hundreds of young people enter Franklin every year with all manner of plans for their respective futures; some have no plans at all. But few realize the importance of what they will learn and of the decisions that they will make.

Many, when they have finished their high school education, will continue their formal education at college; others will supplement their learning in vocational schools, and still others will go directly from organized learning to the trial-and-error education of their chosen occupation. Regardless of where they choose to learn, the learning must progress.

For none of the Quakers is Franklin the first school, nor the first learning experience. Each individual has gained knowledge in a thousand different ways.

Facing this vast array of possible futures, the students as they graduate take their places as the new generation of Americans.

LIFE MAY HOLD.

WE...

Beginning their work during the summer of 1965, the fall senior class cabinet began preparing for the first half of the senior year. They sent letters of information to each senior, along with a senior class card, hoping the recipient would buy it. Soon afterward, the cabinet and other selected seniors introduced the incoming freshmen to Franklin High School.

"I'ts Great To Be A Senior" tags were sold soon after school started. The purpose of this project was mainly to raise money, but it also helped to identify the members of the senior class. During the football season, the class sponsored a game tag sale and an after-game dance following the Marshall versus Franklin game. Senior Satisfaction and Senior Satisfaction Part II, dance themes, show the seniors' point of view.

A prom committee and senior movie staff were selected early in the year so they could have all year to plan the main social event of the year and the senior assembly. During Christmas vacation, a rummage sale was held at the Rummage Sale Center. This boosted the class treasury to well above $1300. At the conclusion of their term, the fall senior class cabinet depart, leaving an excellent example for their successors to follow.

After their installation in January, the spring senior class cabinet assumed their duties for the last half of the senior year. The first activity they planned was the senior-faculty assembly and game. Proceeds from the game were divided between the senior class treasury and the fund for new band uniforms.

Continuing the previous cabinet's fund raising drive, the spring senior class cabinet sponsored game tag sales to boost the class treasury. The senior movie staff continued their work through the spring term, preparing for the senior assembly, at which time the movie would be presented to the student body. Before leaving Franklin for the last time, each senior class presents the student body with a gift. As the ALMANAC went to press, the decision had been narrowed to a choice between a clock for the main hall and a gym marquee.

The Senior Prom was the highlight of the senior year. Held in the Sunken Ballroom of the Massonic Temple, it was based on the theme "My Fair Lady." A new activity a senior picnic, was initiated with hopes that it would become a tradition. Plans for baccalaureate and commencement were prepared by the spring senior class cabinet, thus completing a successful term.

Spring senior class officers Bonnie Allen, Carol Smurthwaite, Gerard Brosnan, Ric Seaberg and Janice Bishop take the oath of office.

Senior rally members John Acton, Joe Lever, and Al Alexander, present a skit as Shirley Cain, Maureen Peloquin and Joanne Scates look on.

In the midst of an elegant setting highlighted by colorful fountains and standards of delicate flowers, the 1966 May Fete Court was presented in an assembly to the student body.

The princesses, each having shown outstanding services to the school, ascended the curving staircase and took their places in front of the soft blue background to await the presentation of the Queen of May Fete.

In her royal robe of red velvet, Queen Marji DeBuse took her place in the gold, satin-draped throne. For the Queen's entertainment, the Girls' Choir presented several songs, including "Three Coins in a Fountain," the theme for the May Fete activities. At the end, 35 people were knighted for their service.

CLASSES

Bill Armes and Jim Coons listen to cabinet business.

Fall President Jim Coons

A good leader, a capable cabinet, and outstanding class support are the ingredients for a successful class, and these are what contributed to a prosperous fall term for the junior class.

Their main project was to prepare for the Junior Prom. They did this by holding several money making projects and raising over $500 by appointing the general committee and chairmen.

THE CLASS OF 1967...

Fall Officers: (Front) Vice President, Bill Armes. (Back) Secretary, Suzy Benson; Treasurer, Jackie Hines; Publicity Chairman, Linda Larson.

Fall Sgts. at Arms: (Front) Teresa Namba, Pam Tyler. (Back) Susan Ball, Vance Putnam.

Spring President Jackie Hines

The spring junior class cabinet began their term by sponsoring a successful after-game dance. Money-making projects included car washes and bake sales, as well as continuing the sale of cards.

The cabinet organized the Senior Movie Committee, and work began on the 1967 film.

Also coordinating the committees, the cabinet helped present the Junior Prom, "Shangri-La."

Jackie Hines conducts spring cabinet meeting.

AMONG MEMBERS OF...

The fall sophomore class cabinet initiated a highly successful term by holding several car washes and bake sales during the summer, which helped to build up their treasury.

One week in November was set aside as Sophomore Spirit week. A class meeting, the selling of spirit tags and a class color day highlighted the week.

Many benevolent sophomores worked on the Christmas project, making toys which were delivered to the delighted young patients of the Doernbecker Memorial Hospital.

The cabinet's main objective was to write a class constitution which was adopted in the Spring elections by the class members.

Spring President Roger Kruse

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS...

Under the able leadership of Roger Kruse, the spring sophomore class cabinet instigated several successful money-making projects for the purpose of supplementing their class treasury. With their thoughts on raising funds for the coming Junior Prom, the cabinet's first enterprise was a tag sale for the Roosevelt basketball game. Following this profitable venture, an April bake sale was held at Lipman's. The delicious cookies, decorated cakes and other fine baked goods were made and donated by sophomores who wished to support their class.

All of the projects of the spring sophomore class cabinet proved profitable, paving the way to a successful junior year.

OUR EXPERIENCED LEADERS...

Our principal, Mr. Arthur Westcott, has been with the Franklin administration since 1960, and has proved himself to be a man who not only works diligently in school, but also devotes many hours to outside activities.

Besides carrying out his full-time responsibility at Franklin High School, he serves as a trustee of Cascade College in Portland, and is the president of the Oregon School Activities Association Board of Control, Oregon Association of Secondary Schools, and the Oregon School Athletic Association.

We consider ourselves fortunate to have Mr. Westcott as our principal. Even though he contributes most of his time to Franklin, he is able to effectively participate in these important educational activities vital to the community and state.

Mr. Max Murray works closely with the faculty in planning curriculum. His post, supervising vice-principal, makes him responsible for text-books, films and other instructional materials and for the library and bookroom personnel. He is in charge of dramatic productions, non-athletic contests, publications, and field trips. He orders all new books and magazines, and supervises the upkeep of classroom equipment. In addition to these duties, he assumes charge of the school in Mr. Wescott's absence. Mr. Murray is especially helpful to new teachers and student teachers. For his assistance and service to the faculty and to the school, Mr. Murray is a valuable member of the administration.

ENCOURAGE US

Although he is fairly new to Franklin, Mr. Jack King has earned the admiration of both students and faculty. As administrative vice-principal, Mr. King is responsible for discipline and attendance among Franklin boys. He is in charge of athletics and school finances. The dispersement of student funds is a concern of Mr. King, as are after-game dances, lockers, fire drills, and nonclassroom furniture. In addition to these responsibilities, Mr. King acts as a special advisor to the Student Council and works closely with the Dad's Club and AFM. Through the successful performance of his many and varied duties, Mr. King has become an important and well-liked member of Franklin's administration.

BY EXAMPLE...

In addition to her duties involving the activities and welfare of Franklin girls, Miss Carrie Grant has many other important responsibilities. As one of the two administrative vice-principals, she is in charge of activities, assemblies, and two of Franklin's most important annual events, the May Fete and the Rose Festival. She plans senior activities and is responsible for the Rally and Pep squads; she registers new students; she supervises hall posters and the morning bulletins. Miss Grant is also the advisor to the senior girls' honor club, Pleiades. All of Miss Grant's efforts are directed toward aiding Franklin and giving the girls four happy and successful years of high school.

TO PURSUE STUDIES WITH DILIGENCE,...

Mrs. Carol Rokstad cheerfully takes a morning phone call.

Franklin High School has eight efficient secretaries and clerks to administer the school's business. Among these secretaries, Mrs. Lorraine Miller, head secretary, works closely with Mr. Westcott. The attendence secretary, Mrs. June Peden, has the daily task of each student's attendence record. Mrs. Ruth White's responsibilities are to assist Miss Grant, Mr. King and Mr. Murray with their correspondence and records. The two other secretaries in the main office are Mrs. Rokstad and Mrs. Horvath, whose duties are to assist Mrs. Miller in any school business. Mrs. Rose McKnight, the counseling secretary, types many forms and applications and keeps records for Franklin's counselors. Mrs. Psyche Miller is in charge of the student store and all money transactions for student groups. Mrs. Galbraith's important job is arranging the distribution of classroom textbooks and checking the condition of all books. All of Franklin's secretaries and clerks are vital to the careful managing of Franklin High School.

(Upper): During their discussion of problems related to school curriculum Miss Boelts, Mr. Richter, Mr. Hanson, Miss Grant, Miss Morris, Miss Thomas, Mrs. Weed, and Mr. McKee take time for an occasional coffee break.

(Lower): Mr. Pancheau, Mrs. Schrader, Mrs. Temple, Mrs. Tyler, Mr. Didditis, Mr. Fuller, and Mr. Murray follow along as the minutes are read.

Franklin's curriculum council, one of the first in the nation, convenes every Tuesday afternoon. This is a seventeen-member committee of parents, faculty and administrators, who discuss curricular problems in the school and the district. Serving a three year term, the parents have opportunity to become familiar with Franklin's curriculum. Each year, one parent retires, thus rotating the committee membership. Based on experience and availability of time is the teacher's tenure. The parents, as the laymen, are chosen by the council on the recommendation of the PTA, the Dad's club, and the former members of the council.

Each teacher represents a different department. Mr. Murray, the administrative vice principal, serves as the curriculum council chairman.

Discussions in the committee relate to course offerings, school relations in the system and community, and student conduct and discipline. Because of the distribution of the minutes to the faculty members, others are given the opportunity to make recommendations to the committee through the department representative. Many important and often serious problems are brought out into the open, discussed, and solved, in the curriculum council meetings.

Through art instructions, creative hands are made more skillful. In a general art course, the many media of expression explored include pencil, charcoal, tempra, watercolors, and oil paints.

Those with more specialized interests can acquire artistic skill in a number of areas. In art metal, for example, student projects include rings, pins, and candle holders as well as purely decorative objects. The ceramics class provides another opportunity for expression in three dimensions. Fabrics are explored in both the textile weaving and interior design courses. However, students enrolled in weaving make use of looms whereas those studying interior design concentrate on combining colors with fabrics.

The commercial art course offered to Franklin students presents the psychological aspects of color, shape, and arrangement in relation to the consumer in today's world. This class is also a prerequisite for art staff. Those on the staff apply their knowledge of advertising techniques to numerous posters and banners around the school.

For those who appreciate the academic rather than the creative facet of art, a half-year course benefits its students by teaching them criteria for understanding art.

Opportunities are open for the students interested in the world of typewriters, shorthand, and data processing machines.

These courses include shorthand, typing and bookkeeping, first and second year. Also available is briefhand, a fairly new course which enables the student to take notes in dictation much faster than in longhand, without the extensive course in shorthand. In Business Office Practice, career-minded seniors become acquainted with adding machines and calculators.

On a half-day schedule, students may take distributive education, which allows them to attend school half of the day and then hold a job.

Junior and senior girls are given the opportunity to work during their study halls in the office, counseling room, or book room. Here they learn office procedure, courtesy and the many day-to-day responsibilities required on an actual job.

A cooperative program with Girls' Polytechnic is maintained so that Franklin girls may receive more technical training in the operation of business machines and in medical filing.

Franklin has completed its 18th year of Combined Classes. These classes, which merge English and social studies, are exclusively for freshmen. The purpose of combining these two important subjects is to help the incoming freshmen learn the more difficult high school English and social studies by providing one teacher for both disciplines rather than a different instructor for each subject.

Odyssey, Mid-Summer Nights Dream, Huckleberry Finn, Six Centuries of Great Poetry, and the English text book, Robert's Patterns of English. In the four year sequence of English, the freshman's study of sentence structure is basic to later work with paragraphs and longer papers. In social studies the students study the history of Europe, Southeast Asia, and Africa, from the Renaissance to the 1900's. The students study the major religions of the world, finding the laws and taboos of each. This helps them to develop an interest in the different cultures of the world.

Through their carefully planned study of English, students strive to express ideas in oral and written form. Much of their knowledge stems from a careful analysis of the literature they encounter. Creative writing and grammar skills are stressed throughout all four years.

The students write papers, correcting and discussing them in class. In this way they have the opportunity to voice their opinions, become familiar with the thoughts of others and better understand the techniques of communication.

As a sophomore and a senior the student studies the evolution of his language from Indo-European, through the age of Chaucer, to the present. The sophomores also read Dickens' A Tale of Two Cities, selected poetry, and a variety of short stories. This helps prepare the students for their final two years. Seniors broaden their literary background by reading books written by British authors. Seniors read such books as Wuthering Heights, Lord Jim and plays from Shakespeare.

Drama, speech, and special English classes are all important parts of Franklin's academics. Students wishing to develop the skills of the performing arts profit greatly from speech and drama.

Mr. Shaffer teaches his beginning drama students the primary techniques of interpretive reading, pantomimes, skits, and short plays. He also instructs an advanced class for talented students who wish to further their study. These classes provide most of the performers in Franklin's dramatic productions.

In charge of forensics is Mr. Holt, who teaches both beginning and advanced speech. The speech students are given the opportunity to gather information, to organize it, to write a speech and to deliver it before an audience. Mr. Holt's responsibilities also include the speech and debate teams, which compete in city and state tournaments.

Miss Morris' special English course helps students from other countries to learn English, enabling them to continue their education in regular classes. Arabic, French, Spanish, Korean, Yugoslavian, and Chinese are among their native tongues.

Creative, productive minds are needed on both the POST and ALMANAC staffs, for their tasks are the construction of Franklin's newspaper and yearbook. The writers must be skilled enough to handle serious and humorous stories, articles, and captions. All staff members must be capable and consciencious. The necessary requirements include the approval of the staff advisor, Mrs. Miriam Puckett, and the recommendation of another teacher.

The course of effective reading enables the college-bound student to improve his reading speed and comprehension. This half-year course also teaches good study habits and the proper method of taking a test, and provides constant vocabulary practice.

CAREFULLY CHOSEN SUBJECTS...

Kari Stanley, Bob Langan, John Payne, Karen Green, and Tom Nakata await the results of a German exam.

In an age of advanced communication and transportation systems, knowledge of the foreign languages and of those who speak them is of tremendous importance. Any Franklin student with an interest in foreign languages, customs, and peoples will find a variety of areas and nationalities represented. In addition to the classic Latin, four modern languages, Spanish, French, Russian and German, are offered.

Latin, a key to the study of a fascinating civilization, a necessity to those students considering scientific or medical careers.

A recent innovation in the contemporary languages division of this department is the Audio-Lingual-Method. Employed during the first two years of all four modern languages, this consists of a planned program of study concentration. Emphasis is first placed on speaking techniques, next on listening, then on reading, and finally on writing. Thus, as the prospective linguist masters each skill, it aids him in learning the next. Effort is made to exercise the student's vocabulary in psuedo-natural surroundings and to make him proficient in conversation. As the course progresses, students concentrate more on grammar, and are introduced to the culture and history of the countries in which the language is spoken.

An ideal consummation of this program is a summer study-abroad trip sponsored by the Foreign Language League.

Mrs. Minavar Uzakova and Mrs. Zoya Malkova, Russian visitors, enjoy coffee with the Franklin faculty.

Kathy Kanas develops her oral skill in the language lab.

Many girls have found home economics to be one of their most important courses in high school. These classes give the students practical knowledge in child care, financial management, decorating and designing, home decoration, and food and nutrition.

Strange and intriguing sounds and smells emerge from the home economics rooms at different times as the girls race through some last minute sewing on that spring dress, or preparing for an afternoon luncheon. At times mouth-watering aromas waft through the halls to tempt students to take an early lunch break.

Starting as freshmen, the girls learn the basics of cooking, clothing, and family life. These are studied in more depth during the sophomore and junior years. From cottons through tailored wools, and simple muffins through complete meals, projects become more difficult and sophisticated. In their senior year the girls learn about family life, with the emphasis on marriage and home management. They are being prepared to enter the world that awaits them after graduation. Each girl will find home economics profitable whether she becomes a housewife, dietician, nurse, dental assistant or a career woman.

With the increase in automation and technological advancements, the demand for skilled workers for tomorrow's jobs has greatly increased. A means of supplying this demand is through modern instruction and training in industrial arts.

Although Franklin is not a technical school, its shop facilities afford students an opportunity to equip themselves with up-to-date job skills.

Single-semester courses available to freshmen students include woodshop, metal shop, drafting and electronics. Those who do well in these classes during the remainder of their high school training. Careful combinations of these courses will pave the way for future competence in creative endeavors.

Photography enables the students to learn the proper use of a camera and to skillfully develop and process the resulting pictures. The students often take and develop pictures used by the POST and ALMANAC staffs.

Mr. Mabry listens as student explains math problem.

Mathematics, taught by highly qualified instructors, gives the opportunity to each student to learn the new mathematic skills. Through daily discussions, tests and homework, mathematics students absorb the principles of abstract proof and learn to apply them to practical computation. Math, which has become a necessity in today's world, is available to the students on several different levels. The requirement of one year of math may be met by taking general mathematics or first year algebra. In furthering his study of mathematics he may wish to go on in algebra or advanced courses such as geometry, trigonometry or senior mathematics. During the junior year, students take standardized tests. Scores on these tests reveal capabilities in arithmetic and mathematics, determining whether or not students will be required to take a course in refresher mathematics.

Students gain a vast amount of valuable understanding through the study of textbooks, proofs, theorems and "T" squares. They learn to explain difficult problems to their classmates during discussion. They learn to use logic in evaluation of proofs. They become more capable people.

The music department performs in many assemblies throughout the year, including the Christmas and Spring assemblies. Every two years there is a city-wide music festival which incorporates the band, orchestra, and choir. Each group performs with half of the other schools in the city. These programs give the groups something to work for after the Christmas rush. The highlight of the year is the spring Fine Arts Festival, where the music and art departments combine their talents to perform for the Franklin community.

The girls' ensembles include the Carillons, the Melodeens, and the Highlights. Each spring a new ensemble is formed for the freshman girls. They audition, and nine or ten singers are chosen, as well as an accompanist. The group stays together for three years and disbands at graduation.

PROFESSIONAL SUCCESS DEPENDS...

Mr. Scheele listens to a student giving a report.

A variety of science courses is available to Franklin students with a curiosity about the world in which we live.

A foundation is laid in freshman general science. Here students are given an introduction to the widely differing fields which are loosely classified as science. Basic exploration is the most important ground work for the science student. As he advances, he may take biology, chemistry, and physics. Upon completion of any of these courses, a student may, the following year, earn a science credit working as a laboratory assistant.

A course in physiology, the study of the human anatomy, is offered to those who have completed both biology and chemistry.

Students recommended by their elementary school science teacher may begin their high school experiences with biology and complete the sequence with science seminar. In this class, students apply their knowledge to individual projects.

Rodney Gray examines the microscopic world of paramecia.

Bruce Hofer adjusts apparatus during science seminar.

Judy Humble, Bob Hubbard, Ron Doyle, Duane Bigone, and Ric Soderberg use a large molecular model to aid their experiment in physics.

In the social studies classes, the students learn about the world in which they live. From their freshman year and the study of ancient history in combined classes to their senior year and the study of economics, international relations and world problems, the emphasis is understanding the world of the '60's.

Social studies plays an important role in developing the individual into a thinking member of our society, through a study of politics, economics and history. The students are able to speak freely in open discussion. These discussions often open new areas of social studies for them.

Although offered as an elective course for sophomores, many students find enriching experience in the further study of European history. The junior social studies course is involved with American history, including as intensive study of the American Constitution. Seniors go into further detail in the discussion of international relations, economics and world problems.

Mrs. McKnight prepares a student's schedule for the files.

At the end of four years, each senior has had the opportunity of becoming acquainted with his counselor through several scheduled appointments, depending upon his individual problems. Each of the four classes has two counselors, one for the boys and one for the girls. The students are introduced to their counselors during their freshman year and remain with the same ones.

The counselors try to help any student who has a problem with his school work or getting along with people. These difficulties are often worked out in private conferences with the student.

The junior counselors help the interested student to start planning for his future after high school. Many questions arise about scholarships, tests, and loans, which they must answer for alert students. The senior class counselors take the responsibility for writing recommendations for each of the seniors who applies for college admittance or scholarships.

With college scholarship deadlines rapidly approaching, Mr. Mr. Nelson discusses transfer papers with Russell Wadleigh. Manning reviews his heavy schedule.

Mr. Tucker, foreign language teacher, makes use of counseling office facilities in determining the number of students to be enrolled in next year's advanced French class.

Lending as many as three thousand books daily, Franklin's library is a store-house of information. The library now contains approximately 18,000 volumes and is continually being supplemented with the latest editions of new books. The wellstocked fiction shelves offer a wide variety and selection of novels for pleasurable reading. Here the reader will find everything, from light, romantic fiction and exciting, suspenseful adventures to ageless and time-proven classics.

Current and past issues of one hundred different periodicals, as well as several thousand pamphlets, are available to the energetic student who seeks information, in addition to these, recordings are available to teachers.

The library staff is effectively helped by the librarian, Mrs. Norlin. She is aided by her two assistants, Mrs. Christensen and Mrs. Lemery, and by several trained student helpers.

Many students use the library wisely during their study halls and leisure time for completion of daily assignments, or when resource books are needed for research and term papers. A student will find many wonders among the shelves.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

FALL STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT
Steve Kanas

DETERMINED AND ENERGETIC...

Every student body president promises to work for the betterment of his school. He begins by setting standards for himself and his cabinet to follow throughout their period of office.

Steve Kanas and his cabinet were no exception. They aspired to promote a more satisfactory relationship between the student body and the faculty. They planned interesting, new and worthwhile projects that would include those students who weren't used to participating in other school activities. Steve informed students about student government so each person could take a responsible part in it.

Steve feels that he profitted from the broad experience he gained from his responsibility to our school and community. He has participated in Franklin's student government as a student council rep, Junior Class president, and finally, Student Body president. He is a member of several clubs, including National Honor Society. He attended the forum and acted in <a href="https://doi.org/10.1007/jhear.1007/jh

Mr. King and Steve discuss assembly schedule.

SPRING STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT Alan Woolfolk

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENTS...

When Alan Woolfolk was installed, he quoted a past United States President by saying of his predecessor, Steve Kanas, "He can be succeeded, but he cannot be replaced." In one respect, Alan was wrong, because he has matched Steve's determination and hard work. Alan has continued the work to improve student participation. One of his main goals was to increase the effectiveness of the Executive Cabinet so that our student body would recognize its value.

Alan's experience in student government includes the sophomore class presidency, and the junior class vice-presidency. He has been vicepresident of Friars and president of National Honor Society.

Alan feels he has benefitted from the experience he gained as Student Body president. He learned more about people and their views. Among Alan's outside activities as Student Body president was his attendance at the Region Three Conference at Concordia High School last February.

Gayle Stucki, Jim Coons, Joe Goodale, Carol Smurthwaite, Diane Weisenberg, Steve Kanas, Marji DeBuse, Carolyn Crockette, Caroline Moore, Dan Roisom, Steve Gore.

AIDED BY THEIR CABINETS,...

Steve Kanas listens as Marji DeBuse reads the minutes of the last meeting.

The fall executive cabinet, headed by student body president Steve Kanas, started the 1965-66 school year successfully by sponsoring the home-coming activities. These festivities included the selection of the homecoming queen. The choice this year was the senior class candidate, Diane Weisenberg. The fall officers sponsored the first after-game dance, "Gridiron Grind," and the student body card sale, contest and assembly. The popular Candyland dance held in December was still another event sponsored by the fall cabinet.

Determined to equal the success of their predecessors, the spring student body cabinet, capably led by the student body president Alan Woolfolk, worked efficiently on such matters as the constitutional revision and a plan of voter registration for student body elections. The cabinet sponsored the annual May Fete Dance, and several members served as judges for the Rose Festival princess selection. One of the most important events under the sponsorship of the spring student body cabinet was the annual observation of Safety Week. During the first day of Safety Week all students who wished to prove their driving knowledge were given a written test on the rules of the road.

Franklin's weekly Student Council meetings were the scene of much spirited debate and the birthplace of many attempts to benefit the school. The representatives considered many significant issues, ranging from a revision of the Student Body Constitution to a plan to purchase more sanitary mustard and catsup containers for the cafeteria. The assembly also entertained pleas for a new asbestos stage curtain, for more rally assemblies, for an all-class talent show, and for a revision of the May Fete-Rose Festival schedule.

Student Council meetings are held every Monday during activity period. During these weekly meetings, the representatives introduced legislations, debated them, and then voted on the issues. They also worked on committees, often donating their own time.

Student Council Representatives are elected twice yearly in all freshman, junior, and senior social studies classes, and in sophomore English classes. These representatives provide liaison between students and the administration.

Under the leadership of Carol Smurthwaite, the Fall AGS cabinet started the climb to a profitable and successful year by making plans to build up depleted funds. They accomplished this by selling red and black licorice whips and "Spook Madison" game tags. The cabinet carried out the Halloween theme, sponsoring an after-game dance titled "Spook Spree."

Singing by the Carillons and an address by guest speaker Mrs. Reinhart from Johnny Johnson's Studio provided an enjoyable evening for those who attended the Mother and Daughter Tea. The "Tea for Two" idea was emphasized by Japanese lanterns and dolls, pictures of the Orient and other souvenirs loaned for the occasion by the Franklin students.

Twirp week was the main event sponsored by the AGS spring cabinet headed by Pat Rouw. The activities began with Cotton and Cord Day and an assembly and concluded with the dance titled "Younger than Springtime." The reps sold assembly tags, candy and dance programs. The traditional slave sale and the Kangaroo Court were also held.

Traditional AFM week was one of the first major activities of the 1965-66 year. An early morning slave sale, an assembly and an after-game dance marked the week. The assembly proved to be particularly interesting. It included several variety acts that provided entertainment for Frank-lin's student body.

The Fall cabinet also presented tentative plans for buying eighty red and gray blazers. These could be worn by students whenever they are representing Franklin at such events as swim and speech meets, conferences and other inter-school activities.

AFM has profitted this year from the capable leadership of Joe Goodale and Sam Hanna. They have worked to promote more activities so that more AFM men could be included. These projects were devised to appeal to the interest of all the men of Franklin.

MADE IN 1962...

Undaunted by pre-season predictions of a fourth eleven ran and passed their way to a 26 - 6 win. place finish, the surprising Quakers of Franklin shocked the Portland Interscholastic League by reeling off 9 straight wins on their way to the state football playoffs.

In their first PIL tilt of the season, the Quakers bounced Benson's Techmen by a 25-12 count. P.A.T. as well. Insuring their win with two final period tallies, the Q-men presented Coach Gale Davis with a victory in his first game as head coach of the maroon and gray.

Franklin's ground attack slashed through the Grant line for 202 yards enabling the "Vow Boys" to take a 20 - 12 decision from the Generals.

Defense and offense highlighted the game with Lincoln. Franklin's scoring potential was demonstrated as the victors tallied a 25 - 0 win.

Continuing their winning ways, the "Vow Boys" defeated Marshall by a 20 - 13 score. Tallying all their points in the first two quarters, the defense of the maroon and gray dug in, to quell the Minutemen's comeback attempt.

Franklin's 5th straight win came at the expense of the Roosevelt Roughriders. The undermanned Teddies were never in the game as the Quaker

Coach Gale Davis' gridders found themselves trailing a tough Jefferson 6 - 0 in the 4th quarter but the Quakers sprung half-back Steve Hawthorne loose for a 61 yard romp to pay-dirt. Hawthorne raced around the Demos' left end for the winning

The powerful Quaker offense was clearly demonstrated as they scored every time they gained possession of the ball in a 46 - 27 rout of Madison.

The Q-men found the Wilson Trojans their last league foe of the season, as the two teams met for the PIL championship. The two play-off minded squads traded single TD's in the second period, with Franklin taking a 7 - 6 halftime lead. The Quakers stormed back to take the second half kick off 71 yards and a 13 - 6 lead. Each team struck for two touchdowns in the final quarter to produce a 27-19 victory, and an undisputed PIL crown for the Quakers.

Drawing the bye on the last round of the football season, the Quakers met Gresham in a PIL-Metro League crossover game. The Quakers extended their winning streak game to nine with a 27 - 20 victory over the Gophers.

RENEWED EVERY YEAR...

The league champion Quakers representing the PIL in state tournament play, found the Metro-League Kingpin David Douglas as their first round opponent. Playing in the Franklin Bowl, which at the time would have been appropriately called the "mud bowl" because of the heavy rains prior to and during the game, the maroon and gray succumbed to the eventual state champion Scots 43 -0. The charged up Douglas squad, lead by Larry Watson, Rick Harrington and All-State halfback Cam Sinclair gained 442 yards rushing, 327 yards by this trio alone. The Quakers on the other hand couldn't generate a successful drive as the heavy rain curtailed their passing attack and the Scot line stopped the Quaker running backs.

Franklin was but one of three playoff foes David Douglas defeated on their way to the State A-I Football Championship.

Mr. Davis commented that David Douglas played a superb game of football.

AND FULFILLED IN 1965...

Before the football season started Franklin's football team was rated by newspapers and sport-writers to come in somewhere around the middle of the pile in the PIL. The Quakers weren't even considered to be title contenders. These predictions, though, did not dampen Franklin's title aspirations. The Quakers were determined and they knew that they were a title threat. When this year's seniors were freshmen, they vowed that they would win the city title before they left Franklin. This became a reality in 1965 when the Quakers went undefeated (8 - 0) in city league play and won their first PIL title in 23 years. This was Franklin's first undefeated season in 48 years.

The Quakers proved that they were not only the best team in the city circuit, but one of the best in the entire state as throughout the season they were always rated high in the state prep football polls, ranking as high as second in the Oregon Journal A - I prep poll.

Because of the tremendous effort and ability displayed by this year's squad, numerous Quakers gained special recognition. Coach Gale Davis, who directed the squad to the title in his first season as Quaker head coach, received the honor of being selected "Prep Coach of the Year" by his fellow coaches. Center Sam Hanna was chosen Scholar-Athlete lineman and Oregon Journal Prep Player of the Week as well as receiving All-City and All-State team honors. Outstanding pass receiver, Joe Goodale, also gained berths on the All-City and All-State football teams. Quarterback Erik Utterstrom was elected to the PIL city team and picked as a "Prep Player of the Week", and guard John Acton was tabbed an All-City player.

Although these players were selected for their outstanding performances, it took a complete team effort to bring the PIL Championship to Franklin.

IS AT LAST WON...

A highly successful and rewarding season was the result of hard work and tremendous team spirit by the Quaker J.V. football squad. Under the direction of coaches Hewitt and Bergen, and led by Mike McMurray and John Struble the team compiled a sparkling 6 win - 2 loss record. Mike, who was converted to quarterback from the regular full back spot, to replace injured Byron Lindholm, ably lead the Jayvees while John spearheaded the offense with his running and pass catching ability. The talented J.V.'s proved that they will be able successors to this year's champion varsity team.

The Freshmen football team was sparked by the superb running of its entire backfield. The exceptional running ability was achieved by successful off-tackle and end sweep plays. Losing only to Madison by a single touchdown, and to Roosevelt by four points, the Frosh amassed a 4 win 2 loss record.

Mr. Burri, Frosh coach, commented that this years freshmen football squad was the best material he has coached while here at Franklin.

IN OTHER SPORTS...

Varsity runner Richard Frantilla completes gruelling practice.

Franklin's cross-country squad, hampered by a lack of experience, compiled a final season record of 2 wins-9 loses. The team saw no returning lettermen, whose experience would have been an asset to the squad.

Few people realize the grueling hours these runners put in after school, as they ran from 2-5 miles every night in preparation for their meets. Top varsity runners Dan Lanning, Richard Frantilla, Alan Howell and Ron Roberti found the opposition quite rough as the Quaker thinclads competed against some of the toughest teams in the city circuit.

Mr. Scheele, coach of the cross-country team, believes that tough competition is the only way for the team to gain experience. For this reason he strives to get only the best opponents for his squad, even at the expense of team records.

PRACTICE THE SKILLS OF TEAMWORK,...

Kevin Ross makes a time saving turn during a relay event.

Franklin's swim squad, handicapped by lack of adequate practice time, found competition quite tough as the boys compiled I win I tie 8 loss record and the girls posted a 3 win 7 loss season. Forced to practice at the John R. Leach YMCA pool before school, the team found it a difficult task to swimming clubs.

Even under these adverse conditions, the Quaker tankers qualified swimmers for the season-ending city meet. The boys' 200 yard medley relay team placed 5th, while the girls claimed 6th in the same event. Demonstrating their individual talents were Morley Gustafsson, who took 5th in city in the breaststroke, and Bob Hubbard, who finished second in the diving competition.

Coach Terada looks forward to a better season next year, as most of this years' girls' squad will return. The boys, on the other hand, will lose the services of senior co-captains Bob Hubbard, and Gary Super, but retain the nucleus of a good team.

Kneeling: Coach Nelson. Team Members: Larry Moore, Vance Putnam, Brodie Birch, Jim Heiman, Joe Goodale, Ken Holstrom, Dick Beswick, Erik Utterstrom, Bob Lovlien, Ed Croft, Bob Carnes, Rick Putnam.

PRACTICE THE SKILLS...

Franklin's varsity basketball squad embarked on what was to be a very unpredictable season. The Quakers dropped their two pre-season games to Parkrose, 47-42, and to Gresham, 81-80.

The maroon and gray compiled a five win, five loss record in the first half of the PIL play. Loosing their first game to the Benson Techmen 71-56 did not dampen the Quaker's spirit for a successful season. Franklin took on Wilson's tall Trojans at the glass palace resulting in a double over-time loss 80-79.

Bouncing back from their two losses, the team claimed a solid victory of 83-65 over Cleveland. Franklin built up more momentum as they defeated Marshall 65-62. In one of the poorer games of the season Franklin fell to Madison 56-63. A win over Jefferson seemed hardly possible, but the Franklin five reeled off an upset with a final score of 80-74.

Next the Q-men travelled to Washington High to take on the highly rated Colonials. This game was a determining factor in the final first half standing because of the upset, 66-61. Seeking a fourth win, our team took on Roosevelt's Teddies and sent them down to a defeat with the final score of 58-53.

Franklin dropped its last two games to Grant 77-60, and to Lincoln 58-39.

The beginning of the second half, starting with a see-saw battle against Benson's orange and blue, saw the Quakers defeated by a score of 73-69. Next Franklin lost to the Wilson Trojans for the second time, 71-64.

Franklin then trounced Cleveland 90-60. By continuing their fine play the Franklin "5" were able to scorch the Marshall Minutemen 61-52. The Quaker's winning streak was snapped by a defeat by the Madison Senators 63-62 and by Jefferson 96-64. Franklin beat Washington High for the second time, but bowed to Roosevelt 74-64. Pulling off what may have been one of the biggest upsets of the PIL season, we won with a victorious score over the highly-rated Grant team, 61-57. The last game was lost to Lincoln 58-55.

Franklin was forced to forfeit wins over Cleveland and Marshall because of player ineligibility.

PROFIT THROUGH...

The Jay Vee basketball team, coached by Mr. Gary Jackson, finished the season with a 9-13 overall record. While participating in league play, the Jay Vee squad displayed the qualities of a sound ball club. The Jay Vee league members were in close competition, and the outcome was usually decided by a few points. Talented performers included Byron Lindholm, Chuck Byers, John Struble, Captain Don Burgard and Danny Velander. Four different boys were used at the guard position, all of them performing well. This year's Jay Vee team worked well as a unit, and with a little more teamwork this crop of boys could compose a real PIL title contender. Varsity prospects for next year's squadare plentiful, with the many fine basketball players on this squad.

When asked about this year's team, Coach Jackson stated that he felt the team would be ready for tough competition their senior year. He recognised that here was good material, and that a promising group was coming up.

Byron Lindholm executes jump-shot over frustrated defender.

Paul Rueck, Mike Parker and Darrell Coe fight for rebound.

Franklin's Baby B-Ballers performed well during the past basketball season, finishing with a 4 win and 6 loss record. The freshman quintet was an exciting team to watch because the games were filled with action and unusual performance. Mr. Holt used his two platoon system with comparitively good results. Sparkplugs of the Frosh squad were Darrel Cox, Art Wold, and Bob shields. The freshman squad was blessed with a definite height advantage over their city opponents. Rebounding strength and backboard control were two major attributes of the Frosh team. Several of these boys will form the nucleus for Coach Jackson's Jay Vee basketball team next year.

It is hoped by our basket ball coaches that these freshmen continue their competative spirit throughout their remaining high school years.

AND GAIN THE ...

Spectator interest in high school wrestling has increased greatly in the last few years as has the proficiency of high school wrestling teams. This was clearly demonstrated by coach Jack Burri's varsity grapplers. Putting together a season's record of 5 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie, the Quaker matmen defeated Jefferson, Washington, Lincoln, Cleveland and Roosevelt.

Highlighting the season with the city wrestling meet at Grant High, as varsity and Jay Vee matmen attempted to gain berths in the state tournament. Franklin was well represented as Ken Bolder took 1st in the heavyweight division, Ron Thompson 2nd in the 136 lbs. class, Greg Drais 3rd at 148 lbs., and George AnDyke 4th in the 98 lbs. class.

JOB WELL DONE.

Franklin's freshman wrestlers, coached by Mr. Gale Davis, demonstrated their ability and determination as they fashioned a 2nd place finish and a 10 win, 2 loss, I tie record in the frosh grappling league. Pacing the 1st year wrestlers were John Rudell who lost only I match the entire season,

Kevin Jones and Floyd Francetich.

These grapplers, along with the rest of the Baby Quakers, claimed 1st place in the Freshman Invitational tournament at Grant, where they defeated the Madison, Marshall and Grant Frosh teams.

The promotion of spirit at Franklin's football and basketball games was left in the capable hands of the Quaker rally squad. Devoting much of their after-school time to practicing their routines, the rally members provided half-time entertainment as well as encouraging spirit and sportsmanship among their fellow Quakers.

The rally squad consisted of Linda Stucki, Gloria Goetz, Chris Walsh, Vicki Ellenwood, Debbie Vasile, and Barbara Webb. These girls were later joined by Dave Stone and Ed Rioseco for the Basketball season. Linda Stucki, the only senior girl member, was elected president of the group by the other members. As President, Linda continuely started yells of encouragement when the going got rough for the team.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP...

With a fine crop of returning lettermen, Franklin cindermen had strength in almost every event. This year's squad was paced by H.S. AAU 60 yard high hurdle champ Elmer Davis. Elmer gained this honor for his performance in the Oregon Invitational Track Meet at the Memorial Coliseum.

Several underclassmen dotted the varsity lineup. A lack of depth in most events proved to be a determining factor when the final points were tallied. As Mr. Scheele has previously stated, he wants his teams to meet the toughest competition possible because he contends that if they don't have stiff competition, they won't improve.

Franklin entered the city meet with high hopes, but these hopes were thwarted as the other teams proved too much, and Franklin finished low in the final city standings. Besides the dual and triangular meets that are regularly scheduled, the city relays are important meets from which the thinclads qualify for the state meet.

IS LEARNED...

The Junior Varsity track squad boasted fine, all-around power with many well-executed talents in the running and field events. Their performance was somewhat hurt in several of these because a few of the top Jay Vee performers were competing on the varsity level. There was a lack of participation in several events.

This year's team showed fine depth, whereas the varsity squad lacked here. The cindermen, coached by Mr. Marty Bergan, look forward to the city relays, which are considered to be the highlight of the season.

The city "B" relays held annually at Madison, exclusively for teams, give the cindermen a chance to compete against some of the better track squads in the city. In a relay meet of this nature, a complete team effort is needed rather than great performances by just one or two individuals.

The trackmen are refining skills which will be an important asset in later competition.

Ken Bolder gains momentum prior to hurling the discus.

The freshman track team of 1966 was one of the best track teams to participate for Franklin in quite a few years. The frosh tracksters walked over 4 teams before the city relays came along and the Franklin Quakers placed third, 1 1/2 points out of second place. One of the outstanding performers was Lee Trotuman who was undefeated in two events, the 440 and the 880; Mike Varnell, another outstanding performer, showed a heave 47' 4". Bob Shields did not lose competition in the high jump, with a season best of 5' 7".

The rising importance of track and field competition has been shown through the continuing improvement of the city's prep cindermen. It is no longer unusual to have records broken, as was evidenced by the fine efforts of the baby tracksters.
Franklin's hopes for track success was bolstered considerably by the showing of this year's squad.

ATHLETIC PROWESS...

Franklin's varisty diamond men, coached by Gary Jackson, were picked at the beginning of the season to finish 3rd in a close race for the coveted PIL crown. This trophy has been in Madison's hands for the last five years. The hopes of the team for a fine baseball season were considerably dampened, however, when the Quakers dropped their first four league contests.

Franklin's players were as powerful as any team in the city, as far as hitting was concerned, with weak defense being their Achilles Heel. Plagued by errors during the beginning of the season, the Q-men didn't get a good enough start to be real title contenders.

The varsity batmen face a rugged schedule as they play a game every school day that there is no rain. Franklin's hitting attack was placed by Bob Carnes, Joe Goodale and Ric Johnson. Top notch pitchers were Gary Volz, Ric Johnson, and Ron Stefani. The many juniors on this year's squad should lay groundwork for a good team next year.

The Franklin bench listens attentively to Coach Jackson.

Danny Trinci moves in to snag fly ball.

The junior varsity baseballers displayed allaround balance as in the early season going they compiled a 2 win, 1 loss record, as well as a tie game with Washington which was called because of darkness. They exhibited a sound pitching staff with three starters and two relief hurlers. The batmen displayed depth at all positions, as they had two players at each of the eight infield and outfield spots. In their first few games, the diamondmen encountered a little trouble with hitting, but the potential is there for a strong hitting squad.

Coach Nelson schools the "9" in the basic skills of hitting and fielding, with attention also given to the advanced phases of the game.

These players are conditioning and preparing themselves for competition on the varisty level. The boys' talent and ability to play "heads up" baseball are developed as the players strive to gain honor and recognition for Franklin.

OF VICTORY...

Our baby baseball club picked up two quick opening season wins due to the fine pitching of their mound staff. Paced by the hurling of pitchers Dan McElhaney and Don Loomis, the frosh picked up two victories from their Washington and Roosevelt opponents. These freshmen played six games in a rather short season. Outstanding offensive players were Roger Roisom, Don Loomis, and Dave Synder. Players displaying outstanding defensive talent were Dave Synder, Dan McElhaney, Robert Otey and Rick Long.

In their first game, the Franklin diamondmen thrased Washington 6-3. In the second game the Frosh Q-men shutout Roosevelt I-0 behind the I0 strikeout pitching of Dan McElhaney.

Coach Buckiewicz was pleased with the results exhibited by his squad. The freshman team displayed fine all around offensive and defensive prowess. These boy's ability will be put to good use on the varsity ball club in the future years to anchor Franklin's entry into the race for the PIL baseball championship.

Darrell Coe prepares to field ground ball.

Morley Gustafsson forehands an opponent's serve.

The Franklingirls' tennis team, which suffered from the loss of three top players through graduation last year, spent the year gaining valuable experience in PIL competition. During this building season Miss Piper, the girls' coach, instructed the girl netters in the more advanced phases of league matches.

Sparked by senior Morley Gustafsson, the girls put together a record of 2 wins and 3 losses in their first five matches. Morley, Jane Miller, and Nancy Burkenbine formed the squad's singles representatives, while the doubles were played by Ria Wheeler and Peggy Prusak, plus Carolyn Petrone and her partner Kathy Brost.

The girls' tennis program lacks somewhat in enthusiasm because many girls are too busy to participate. If they did, however, they would find that the program would benefit them as well as the school. Tennis is one of three competative sports offered to Franklin girls.

This year's tennis season saw triumph for Frank-lin's fine tennis team which demonstrated its abil-ity in dominating the tennis circuit. Starting out the season, the Quaker courtmen overwhelmed their first 5 opponents; the results were a 5-0 victories over Marshall, a pair of 3-2 victories at the expense of Madison and Washington and 5-0 white washings of Benson and Roosevelt. This year's team was considered to have some of the best tennis players that Franklin has had in competition.

The leading Franklin tennis player was Dick Henry, who was followed by Jim Lau and Ron Bron-leewe. Other members who compose the varisty entry are Hank Tomlinson and Ron Hoover on one double's team, and Ron and Doug Thompson on the other double's team. Out of the seven starters for the Quaker netters, six are seniors which indicate that next year's team, in all probability, will go through a building season.

FRANKLIN ALL STARS

NOW.

FROM THE FIRST NOTES...

A high school band has many activities during a school year. Ours is no exception. Being a member of FHS Band requires more than just going to the band room first period each day.

In the band itself there are two groups that play at the basketball games. One is the Pep Band, which has twenty-five members and the other is the Dance Band consisting of only ten members.

"Dance Band" is actually a misnomer now. This group, originally formed to play at student dances, no longer functions in that capacity because of the popular combos.

Along with providing spirit at the games, the Band performed at the Winter and Spring Concerts and the Biennial City-Wide Band Festival. An unusual request this year was to help in the dedication of a new United States Post Office.

Raising money for the new band uniforms filled out any spare time the members had. Ten thousand dollars is needed to attain the goal of one-hundred new uniforms.

Dan Haapala leads the Pep Band in a popular song during the half time intermission.

The formal counterpart of the Band is the Orchestra. Most members attend orchestra one period each day along with practices twice each week at 8:00 in the morning. The reason for morning practice is that some members of orchestra are also members of band and cannot attend both classes.

Weeks of practice and rehearsal preceded the orchestra's appearance in the Thanksgiving assembly, which was their first performance of the season. Later in the school year, although somewhat hampered by an epidemic of influenza which was responsible for the absences of many of its musicians, the orchestra represented Franklin in the High School Orchestra Festival, a city-wide contest. Soon after this, the instrumentalists heralded our May Fete Queen in her special assembly, providing a stately processional for the court's appearance. The last major appearance of Franklin's orchestra, instructed and directed by Mr. Pancheau, was in the spring Fine Arts Festival.

TO PERFORMANCES...

The Franklin vocal music department found itself facing another activity-filled nine months as the school year began. The "A" Choir, under the direction of Mr. John Peery, sent several small groups and ensembles to perform at Barnes Hospital in Vancouver and to the Veterans' Hospital in Portland. The choir, as in 1965, filmed a Christmas show for KGW-TV. A tradition for obth the Hilton Hotel and the Franklin "A" Choir is their performance at the annual Christmas tree lighting festivities. The Girls' Choir, directed by Mr. John Brewer, had their biggest thrill of the year when dressed in semi-formals, they sang for the May Fete Assembly. Other smaller vocal groups, including the Madrigal, the Carillons, the Mel, odeens, the Hi-lites, and the Boys' Double Quartet, found themselves laden with heavy schedules, performing for hospitals, and city civic groups, as well as grade schools, Dads' Club, and PTA. These opportunities afforded each singing group an experience in communicating with other people through the medium of music, the universal language.

GROUPS AND STAFFS

During a high school career a student may choose to join one or more of the groups and staffs. If he uses an elective for this purpose he usually receives a credit. Groups which do not give crecit are generally a source of experience and give him a chance to be of service to his school.

To become a member of a staff a student may have to ask the permission of the advisor. In some instances, he will be required to submit a written application stating his reasons for wanting to join this staff and giving his qualifications.

Most staff members devote one period a day to their duties, generally using either their lunch hour or study hall. The staffs that give credit meet a certain period each day. In this case, a student may work during his study hall as well as the designated period.

Being on a staff is a privilege. For those who are determined to achieve various goals it can be very rewarding. The POST and ALMANAC staffs strive to meet deadlines for the school paper and yearbook production. Other staffs provide service to both faculty and students. Working with these groups and staffs give one the opportunity to acquire experience and broaden knowledge. A person learns to work with other people.

INTEREST, SUPPORT...

A glance at the record of Franklin's PTA reveals them to be a source of information and knowledge. The 1965-66 meetings contained such enlightening features as guest speakers and panel discussions. One of the season's highlights was a visit by radio personality John Salisbury, who spoke on "The Responsibility of Parents." Another interesting topic presented concerned the government project designated "Head Start," a program designed to help underpriviledged children. Subjects ranged from "Job Opportunities" to "Senior Citizens."

The Franklin High Dads' Club enjoyed a busy and profitable year.

They challenged the KISN Good Guys to a basketball game, using the money raised by the admission fee to build up the club treasury. This adventure was termed a complete success, at least financially. The outcome of the contest, however, proved disappointing to the Dads.

This year the Dads were benefactors to a deserving student who received the annual Dads' Club Scholarship. They also made a contribution to the Band Uniform Fund displaying their generosity.

Every day the Post staff meets during seventh period to prepare the next issue of the school paper. Within a two week time limit they must complete the entire publication.

It is a standing policy that school news appears on the first page, the editorial page comes next and the features are on the third page. Sports and advertisements are on the first page.

The Post staff produces two special senior issues: the Christmas and graduation editions. In addition to general news, the December paper includes senior wishes to Santa. The end of the year issue features senior wills.

In April the student body receives a newspaper that is somewhat hard to believe. But then, what can a person expect when the staff looks forward to making an April Fool's edition for the sole purpose of displaying their flair for imaginative reporting?

Under the direction of Mr. Cole, the staff is inaugurating more efficient procedures in gathering and writing news.

Creating a high school yearbook is challenging. It is a task which takes time, hard work and patience. Each of the seven ALMANAC sections is staffed by two people and an editor who sees that his part of the book is completed. After corrections or changes have been made the layout sheets are sent to the printer.

Photographers, a typist, a copy editor and a business manager complete the staff. Student photographers supply pictures of school activities.

The copy editor checks each piece of copy for punctuation and proper sentence structure. It is her job to create the headlines and to assist in the creation of all other copy. The typist then "sets" copy and identification on the IBM Executive typewriter. The business manager's job is to handle financial matters. He keeps accurate books so that everyone who paid for an ALMANAC receives one.

The entire yearbook staff is bound together by the editor and the advisor. These two people work to see that a good book is created.

ACTIVITIES

Senior Queen Diane Wisenberg was escorted by Fall Senior Class Sgt. -at-arms Ric Seaberg as she presided over home-coming festivities.

LINKING THE PAST...

Homecoming ceremonies have become a tradition at Franklin High School. Since everyone has an English class at the first of the year, girls were nominated and then a representative was elected from each respective class. These representatives were introduced to the students in an assembly prior to the Homecoming ceremonies. The queen was elected by a popular vote of the student body. At the first football game of the year, the girls were presented to the spectators in a convertible car driven by a Dad's club member. Each girl was wearing a corsage of white carnations given to her by the student body. The last girl to enter the bowl and to be presented to the students, was the Homecoming queen. The 1965 Homecoming queen was senior Diane Weisenberg, who was presented with a bouquet of long stemmed red roses by last year's queen Mary Velander. Diane's escort was Ric Seaberg. The princesses were junior, Linda Wilson, sophomore, Elaine Soljaga, and freshman, Nancy Stewart.

AND SHOWING IN THEM...

Several skits performed by members of the executive cabinet highlighted the Student Body Card Assembly on September 21. These short paradies of television advertisements were to encourage the students to buy their cards. A new method of promoting participation in the contest was announced by Steve Kanas.

This year, in view of past defeats at the hands of Cleveland High School, the cautious cabinet decided to have inter-class competition. Results of the contest are among the many factors considered for the presentation of the Dr. Erikson Trophy.

Audience participation was of importance in the assembly. Each class was led by its own officers in a cheer reflecting its intentions of participating in the contest.

When the results of the card sales were announced the freshman class led the competition with 91.6% with the senior class a close second 91.3%. The sophomore and junior classes followed with 88.3% and 86.9% respectively.

THE COURSE OF THE FUTURE,...

Intricate marching formations were executed.

Martial tunes and precision drilling were the highlights of the assembly on October 6 when the Fleet Marine Force Pacific Drum and Bugle Corps performed for the students. The corps has a membership of twenty-one instrumentalists and the drum major. The shimmering silver instruments, three sizes of bugles and snare and base drums, were impressive. Executing flourishes between beats the cymbal player entertained listeners as much with his showmanship as with his artistry.

Intricate formations were done with ease despite difficult steps and footwork. Tunes familiar to the students included medlies from My Fair Lady and The Music Man, "Marine Hymn," and "America the Beautiful."

The Drum and Bugle Corps has played throughout the Pacific Basin and in many countries overseas. One of the highlights of their tours abroad occurred when they had the priviledge of playing at the wedding procession of Crown Prince Ahkito and Princess Michiko of Japan.

Last year's winning model car was displayed.

ASSEMBLIES PROVIDE...

The Fisher Body Assembly was presented by the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild. In a filmstrip, a shopping cart concealed in the trunk was shown. Modern methods for improving transportation were also illustrated. Among the new improvements for cars were air-flow ball bearings, versatile rubber for the tires, heat repellant cloth, and automatic air conditioners. He demonstrated how to design a model car by drawing the basic outlines.

The intricacies of building and designing a model car were illustrated in a film that was shown. By writing to the Guild, every boy could receive instructions about designing a model car. Each boy was encouraged to participate and submit his original creation, being completely constructed and painted by the boy himself. Annually there are eighteen winners, each one being awarded a $10,000 college scholarship to be used at the school of his choice. Evidence of drafting skills artistic design, and imagination, contribute to the selection. Winners and losers alike gain experience in making plans and using tools.

The feasibility of a solar air conditioner was demonstrated.

Kirby Brumfield extemporizes for students.

Kirby Brumfield, KATU-TV personality, spoke to Franklin students in an educational yet entertaining assembly on October 12. With humor and convincing logic he explained that students do not have to lower their standards to achieve popularity. He challenged the students to make decisions and not be afraid to stand up for them. He explained that no one needs to make apologies for standing for the right even though the wrong is popular. Mr. Brumfield spoke on manners, health, honesty, study, sex, and belief in God, with a crisp, wise, and witty approach to each separate topic.

Kirby Brumfield grew up in the small town of Scappose, Oregon. He used several of his personal high school experiences to emphasize the importance of his talk.

At the close of his presentation, he emphasized the importance of physical fitness. He glibly taught his unsuspecting audience how to wave good bye, "an exercise for taking leave of company," and left the stage to the accompaniment of thunderous applause.

The annual "AFM Week" was held during the week of October II-I5. The "Slave Sale" was held on Tuesday of that week, where many young men were sold to admiring young ladies. The week was brought to a close with an assembly and an after game dance on Friday. At the assembly, the students were entertained by comedian Lew Fine and "The Amazing Man Who Grows," Bill Fraser. Students danced to the music of "The Bent Scepters," a combo provided by AFM for the dance.

Each year AFM sponsors a week in which they earn money by selling slaves and tickets which will permit the holder to attend the assembly and the after game dance. Funds raised in this drive are used for AFM presentations.

Lawrence Smith, an accomplished pianist, played for the men of AFM in an assembly on January 28. He was selected as alumnus of the year by AFM. He accepted a plaque which honored his achievements. Mr. Smith, a 1953 graduate of Franklin High School, played a selection, Chopin's Andante Spinato, as a tribute to Franklin men.

FOR SCHOOL SPIRITED AUDIENCES...

Combining ingenuity with spirit the Rally girls helped make this year's football rally assemblies the most exciting ever at Franklin. Clever, well executed skits, were among the highlights of these assemblies. The music was animated and the cheering loud as the team and coaches were introduced. Called upon to speak in each assembly were the two boys who had been chosen as game captains for the next game. Their speeches were interrupted by wildly enthusiastic students.

One of the most spirited rally assemblies of the year came just before the eighth game of the season. Knowing that the PIL Championship was at stake, the students gave the team an example of the spirit that would be behind them in their efforts to win "eight in a row."

"That's our team and we couldn't be prouder" chanted the crowd as the Quaker team was honored in an assembly to receive the PIL season's hard work, was presented to Joe Goodale, representing the team, the coaching staff, and the Franklin students.

This program was iniated to inform Franklin's sophomores, juniors and seniors of available opportunities in colleges and vocations.

An important part of the conferences consisted of an assembly on December I featuring Mr. Ben Padrow, head of the Speech Department at Portland State College.

On the following day students were given an opportunity to attend three conferences pertaining to their own interests. The subjects of these conferences ranged from Accounting to Vocational Schools.

Also included as a supplement to the conferences were several exhibits in the main hall. Two large companies, International Business Machines and Pacific Northwest Bell, represented industries. The armed services provided manned displays of recruiting material.

GIRLS, WITH STUDIED INTEREST,...

Twenty-five lovely "Double-Take Fashions" were modeled by Franklin girls during the October 19 Simplicity Fashion Show. These fashions were expertly designed and tailored to fit the tastes and needs of a high school co-ed.

Commentator Margaret Heyden felt that perts and capri pants were not suitable for street wear. She went on to present several outfits, jumpers, suits, and dresses, which are acceptable for shopping, school, and casual dates. The evening gowns were of the same style as the daytime dresses, the difference being in the luxurious fabrics and accompanying accessories. This possible use of the pattern for ensembles of casual signifigance or formal elegance gives the appropriate name "Double-Take Fashions" to these designs.

The Simplicity Fashion Show gave Franklin girls an insight to good taste and the new fashions. Closely related to the home economics course study of wardrobe planning, girls in all classes saw examples of the features they are learning to recognize and use for themselves.

OBSERVE THE SOCIAL GRACES...

Mrs. Reinhart, guest speaker for the tea, spoke on charm.

Greeted by senior Amy Yabuki, the charming Japanese hostess, mothers and daughters were wished "kon nichi wa", "Good evening." The setting was an Oriental atmosphere, with a display of Japanese lanterns and dainty Japanese dolls. Tunes from "Kismet" sung by The Carillons, senior ensemble, were appropriate against a background of bamboo and intricate Oriental paintings.

Charm instructor Mary Ellen Reinhart, from Johnnie Johnson's studio, was the speaker for the evening. She explained that though appearance and poise are important, a person's charm is determined by the warmth of her personality. Basic elements of courtesy and friendship must accompany an attractive appearance, if a girl is to be considered charming.

Sponsored by AGS, the Mother Daughter Tea is held biannually in order to promote better relations between the girls of Franklin and their mothers. In alternate years, AGS plans a Father-Daughter banquet designed to let the girls become better acquainted with their fathers.

Maureen Peloquin and Shelley Williams decorated for dance.

Following the October twenty-second game with Madison, the elated Quakers celebrated their seventh triumph of the football season with a victory dance. In keeping with the Halloween season, the theme "Spook Spree" was selected for this AGS sponsored dance. Decorations, which were chosen to compliment the theme, were put in place by girls who had volunteered their services. Both real and paper jack-o'-lanterns were used, as well as several paper skeletons, witches, black cats and ghosts. A more mobile part of the decorations consisted of two live "ghosts" who took tickets and served as ushers. A straw scarecrow dressed in blue jeans chaperoned the dance from his corner while his cardboard counterpart stood guard in another part of the floor. The refreshments were provided by the AGS fall representatives. Cookies, in festive Halloween shapes with appropriately colored icings of orange and chocolate, and orange juice were served. Couples cavorted to music provided by the Bent Scepters, until the witching hour.

PARTICIPATION IN DRAMA...

Mr. Shaffer gives good luck handshake to Vicki Johnston.

Franklin's Drama department presented "Pillow Talk" November 19 and 20, in the Franklin Auditorium. Senior Cliff Samuelson and junior Janet Dambach assumed the roles of Brad Allen, the irresistable-to-all-women-and-loving-it song writer, and Jan Morrow a successful interior decorator. Brad proved himself a constant nuisance to Jan by his persistent use of the party line, which they shared. This party line is what eventually brought them together.

Many weeks of work went into the first stage production of the year. After school and evening rehearsals were a part of the preparation for this delightful comedy.

The apartments of Jan and Brad were of contemporary decor, and the costumes which the cast wore, provided by Lipman and Wolfe Company, were of modern design.

The students who took part in the play, and the director, Mr. Shaffer considered it a worthwhile and exciting experience. Each participant hoped to give the audience a pleasurable evening.

MERITS PLEASURE AND REWARDS.

A school with growing importance in the Portland Forensic League is Franklin, whose team, coached by Mr. Donald Holt, has amassed a total of 337 points in the 1965-1966 season. Franklin placed third behind Wilson in the city standings, with Grant taking first place.

Each year meets are held at the schools in the Portland area. Franklin hosted two speech and three debate meets. School standings are tallied at the end of each season, with first, second, and third places being considered for awards. Five points are given for a first place, three points for a second, and one point for a third. A debate win earns five points.

On January 27-29, the Franklin forensic and debate teams participated in the University of Portland speech meet. Dave Olson, Pam Santangelo, and Gary Scheuerman brought home first place trophies. Sheila Oesterreicher placed second.

Franklin's orchestra entertains students with "We Gather Together" in traditional Thanksgiving assembly.

OUR NATIONAL HOLIDAYS...

The string section concentrates on music.

Special music in the Thanksgiving spirit was the order of the day for the double assembly on November 23. Franklin's 55 piece orchestra, directed by Mr. Pancheau was featured. Among the familiar tunes performed was "Wilt Heden Nu Treden." a 17th Century Dutch Tune commonly known as "We Gather Together. Mr. Shaffer, who narrated the program, told the audience of this song's origin. It was written by the composer Valerius to Princess Juliana of the Netherlands. In another highlight, "Scene de Ballet" from Swan Lake by Tschaikovsky, the oboe of Margaret Rueck could be heard playing the theme. Patterning after the famous young peoples' concerts, Mr. Pancheau explained that a novice could recognize the haunting theme, once it was introduced. Steve Kanas and Rosemary Webb were featured in the program, presenting a narrative on the meaning of Thanksgiving. Since Thanksgiving is the day officially set aside for giving thanks, they said, each person should feel thankful for the things which mean the most to him.

Inkeeping with the Christmas spirit, the vocal and instrumental music program on December 21 in a morning and evening performance.

Introducing the program the orchestra played a medley Lullaby, Our Master has a Garden and "Waltz" from Babes in Toyland. The combined choirs with the orchestra presented a Choral Fanfare for Christmas. The Carillons, Melodeens, Hi-Lites, Madrigal, and Boys Octette supplemented the program with folk carols. Selections chosen originated in England, France, Germany, Norway, and Russia. Christ is Born, a Ukranian carol was one of the songs chosen by the Girls' Choir to carry out the Christmas theme. The "A" Choir stimulated the audience with Honor and Glory by J.S. Bach. Mr. James Shaffer directed the choral speaking choir in an entertaining interpretation of The Night the Grinch Stole Christmas.

As the narrators, Pam Parker and Vicki Johnston, introduced each selection, they unfolded the story of the birth of Christ.

FESTIVITY, AND STUDENTS...

Through a lane bordered with lighted candles, couples walked to enter the transformed gymnasium. A festive atmosphere had been created to correspond to the theme "Lighted Lanes and Candy Canes", which was chosen by the sponsoring Executive Cabinet. A tinsel-decked tree provided background for Santa as he heard the Christmas requests of the "children" perched on his lap. With his sleigh waiting in the center of the floor, Santa handed out candy canes to his fans and posed with them for pictures. Frank Baldino and his band played for the couples as they danced beneath pine boughs and mistletoe.

Dances are an important part of student life. In addition to special dances, such as the Christmas dance and the Twirp dance, regular after-game dances are held. During the 1965-66 school year students were given the opportunity to attend a number of these events. Sponsored by various student groups, the dances were generally held in the gym but at times took place in Franklin's cafeteria.

WE ENJOY THE PERFORMANCES...

Franklin's Concert Band gave its first performance before the students in a special band assembly on February 3. This annual assembly gives the band members an opportunity to display to the student body proficiency in concert and popular material in contrast to the usual pep tunes.

The program featured many well known songs, including the themes from "Exodus" and "Lawrence of Arabia" and the popular "Alley Cat" in which the trumpet section enjoyed prominence.

Phil Baldino, clarinet soloist, performed "Clarinet on the Town." Another solo number was "Latinata," by Dan Graham on his saxophone.

The accomplished band presented one particularly interesting selection, entitled "Saraband." In this piece, the director, Mr. Pancheau, first showed the individual parts of each of the three sections, letting the audience hear the different types of instruments. Then the sections, brass, woodwind, and percussion, played their parts together forming the particular fusion of instrumental sounds characteristic of a band.

The Foreign Language Assembly was presented on February 7 during forecasting to acquaint prospective foreign language students with the available languages: Russian, Spanish, French, Latin, German, and English for foreign students. The audience consisted of students who were forecasting or who were already enrolled in a foreign language. Each foreign language class was responsible for taking part in the program.

The assembly was presented during Foreign Language Week. Mr. Walton narrated the program which included "Mexican Hat Dance" played by the Spanish students, and the play "Little Red Riding Hood" performed by the French class. The Latin classes sang two songs, "Du du liegst mir im Herzen," a beer drinking song, was sung by the German classes, and the Russian class sang a medley of revised songs from "The Sound of Music."

As a special highlight to the program, Miss Morris' students, who are just learning English, sang several American folk tunes, including the familiar "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and "The More We Get Together."

A capacity crowd flooded into the Franklin gymnasium to watch the Franklin Dads' Club tangle with the KISN Good Guys on February 8. The Franklin Dads' Club, nicknamed the "Daddios" consisted of Dad's Club members and a teacher, Mr. Fleming. The referees were Coaches Nelson and Flitcroft. The Franklin Daddios had a cheering squad of faithful and loyal mothers, attired in sweat shirts and pleated skirts. They led the crowd in such cheers to the Daddios as: "Fee fie fo fum, look out KISN, here we come." Although the Daddios put up a good fight, the KISN Good Guys won by one point.

This basketball game was played as a benefit for the Dads' Club fund. Every year the Dads' Club has several money-making projects, such as selling programs and manning the concession stand at the games. They contribute to the band fund which provides new uniforms and money for bus transportation. Several Dads' Club scholarships are awarded annually to Franklin students who have a high scholastic record and who are worthy of this award.

RECEIVE OUR ENTHUSIATIC SUPPORT...

Pep assemblies featured the exuberant rally squads and enthusiastically participating audiences. Starting with a rousing number by the pep band, these assemblies included a variety of tumultuous cheering sessions and entertaining and amusing skits. The student body cried "We want the team" as the team went onto the stage. Coach Nelson encouraged the Quakers to support their hard-working team by attending the games.

A highlight of each senior year is the senior-faculty game. On March 7 in a double assembly the senior and faculty rally squads entertained the student body with an exhibition of their talents in promoting spirit. Members of the faculty rally were dressed as beatniks with mopwigs and picket signs. The costume of the senior rally was red jumpers with checked collars and belts. The game was held on March 9. Halftime entertainment was provided by a team of senior girls who played an early basketball game. Due to the expert talents of various faculty members, the seniors succumbed to a twelve point defeat, 46-34.

AGS AND QUAKERS COOPERATE...

Typical AGS Slave is wearied under her burden.

The annual AGS Week was held April 4-9. Tags were sold on Monday and Tuesday which entitled the holders to entrance in the slave sale and assembly later in the week. Wednesday was cotton and cord day, signifying the relegation of woolens to mothballs.

Steve Kanas and Rollyn Brown were the slave auctioneers. The girls were then sold to the highest bidder. Each girl walked across the stage showing only her legs and feet. Shoes and stockings of various types could be seen as the curtain was raised. The assembly was presented on Friday as a highlight of the week. Our guests were the Men's Glee Club from Cascade College. They sang a variety of classical and religious tunes, which included "Happy Wanderer," Grandfather's Clock," and Ghost Riders in the Sky." The trio sang "I'm the Other End of You," and in honor of the Easter season, "The Old Rugged Cross."

MAJOR DRAMATIC PRODUCTIONS...

Something new in play production was tried this spring by drama students. "The Glass Menagerie" was presented for two consecutive week ends, each with its own cast. The two casts performed independently of each other and made their own interpretations.

Composed of Rosemary Webb, Susan Ball, Cliff Samuelson, and George Rask portraying respectively Amanda, Laura, Tom and Jim, the first week-end's cast acted out Tennesse William's play.

The second week-end's cast consisted of Steve Savage, Vicki Johnston, Pam Parker, and Cliff Samuelson respectively playing Tom, Amanda, Laura, and Jim.

The setting of the play is an apartment in St. Louis during the 1930's. The audience must sense the full weight of the pressures which are brought to bear upon Tom, that cause him to seek escape by joining the Merchant Marines. To achieve that effect, a cut-down set was constructed. A unique lighting plot was employed to create an atmosphere of dimly-lit memories.

ATTEND INFORMATIVE LECTURES.

Launched into its third year at Franklin with the theme "Peace in Our Time," the Franklin Forum has again challenged the minds of its members. The Forum is a series of lectures with discussion periods in which the members can question the speaker.

This topic was chosen after much consideration by a steering committee consisting of five teachers and six students. The theme of peace was timely in view of the current interest of students and of the entire nation, in the United States' world problems. It was selected to make the Forum members aware of the ideas and ideals connected with peace.

The first Forum, which took place on October 29, presented Dr. Fredric Von Rheenan of the University of Oregon Medical School. He spoke about his experiences with the Peace Corps in Nigeria, where he and his wife spent two years.

Initiated in 1961, the Peace Corps had endeavored to promote understanding between Americans and other peoples, and to help emerging nations. Dr. Mort Paglin, associate Professor of Economics at Portland State College, spoke to Franklin's second Forum on the topic "The Economics of Peace." Dr. Paglin drew a chart showing that decreasing the United States military output would increase the production of consumer goods.

The Forum's third speaker was Brother Godfrey Vassallo, head of the physics department at the University of Portland. Brother Vassallo's talk concerned the value of the atom to peace.

Franklin's fourth Forum featured Mr. Jacob Avshalomov, conductor of the Portland Junior Symphony. As a musician, Mr. Avshalomov was particularly concerned with music's effect upon human spirit and its use as a means of communication among peoples.

Presenting the Forum's last lecture was Dr. David H. Newhall, chairman of the philosophy department at Portland State. Expounding his philosophy concerning war and peace, Dr. Newhall provided his audience with ideas to contemplate.

Because safety is so important, the week of April 18-22 was proclaimed "Safety Week" at Franklin to emphasize the need for care in driving. Officer Sutter and Mr. Mitchel presided over the events of the entire week. On Monday, a difficult written test was conducted which showed many who participated the necessity of extensive training in driving skills. Those attaining the highest scores on the written test could complete in an additional driving test Tuesday. At a special assembly on Wednesday, Franklin's honored guest, Governor Mark O. Hatfield spoke on aspects of safety, emphasizing the responsibility of the drivers. Rick Nagle, Steve Smith, and Doug Thompson were awarded seat belts in recognition of their commendable scores on the tests.

On Friday, students were invited to submit their cars for a safety check.

During the week, safety tags with the theme "Settle for Safety" were sold to promote enthusiasm among the students. Posters displayed about the halls emphasized this theme.

Governor Hatfield conducted an informal session to answer questions posed by Franklin students.

AND GLORY TO FRANKLIN.

More than a week of enthusiastic preparation preceded the selection of Franklin's 1966 Rose Festival Princess. On April 21, scores of pretty seniors presented themselves for selection. This number was narrowed to 24 and then to seven. The seven finalists, Kris Alfsen, Maryanne Beltz, Janice Bishop, Carol Bradshaw, Carolyn Crockett, Carol Smurthwaite and Linda Stucki, were presented to the student body in a special assembly. Each candidate delivered an original speech which concurred with the 1966 Rose Festival theme, "From the Music Stand". Students voted for their choices the same day, having been encouraged to base their selection on beauty, poise, speaking ability, adult appeal and personality. The next morning, another special assembly, hosted by Student Body President Alan Woolfolk and featuring Franklin's 1965 Rose Festival Princess Veanne Johnson, revealed Franklin's representative for the 1966 Portland Rose Festival Court, Kris Alfsen.
